

CURRICULUM VITAE OF RACHNA KHARE

Brief Bio

Rachna Khare is Dean (Student Affairs) and full Professor at School of Planning and Architecture Bhopal. Before this she was Head of the Department of Design. She has served the institute in several other administrative positions like Dean (Research) and Head of the Departments (Architecture, Conservation and Landscape). Starting her career in the early nineties as an Exhibition Officer cum Designer in Jawahar Kala Kendra, Jaipur, she practiced for eight years in the field and then joined academia. She is a dedicated teacher and keen researcher for last twenty-four years. She stayed Senior Research Fellow with Jamshedji Tata Universal Design Research Chair at National Institute of Design, Ahmedabad and taught at Birla Institute of Technology, Mesra. She was recognized as 'Inspired Teacher' by Hon'ble President of India and stayed Scholar-in-Residence at Rashtrapati Bhavan in 2016. Rachna won prestigious Fulbright scholarship twice with her second Fulbright-Nehru selection as education administrator. She has availed this fellowship in 2022 with select cohort at George Washington University, Washington, USA.

In her first Fulbright Fellowship (2007), Rachna was affiliated with the Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, USA during her PhD. Her research interests in the field of 'Universal Design' and 'Designing for Special Needs' have earned her grants and awards nationally and internationally. Apart from the Fulbright award, she is recipient of IMFAR-2009, Professionals from Developing Country Award, Chicago; Friends of Fulbright India Grant-2008, Lewisburg; Universal Design Award for Working professional-2011 by NEPEDP-MPhasiS, India and R&D projects from All India Council of Technical Education and University Grants Commission in India. She works closely with the United Nations and consults internationally on disability issues and public access.

She has lectured extensively on Inclusive Design all over the world and has many papers in various National and International journals and conferences to her credit. Her papers appeared in the publications like Taylor and Francis, Sage, HFES, EDRA, RESNA and Archnet MIT. Her book 'Designing Inclusive Educational Spaces for Autism' published by the Institute of Human Centered Design, Boston, USA was released in 2010 at 'Build Boston', the book received 'Certificate of Merit' in ArchiDesign Award-2010. She has also edited special issues of internationally refereed journals called 'SPANDREL' on 'Social sustenance' in 2012 and 'ABACUS' on 'Architecture for All' in 2007. Some major events organized by her are 'Universal Design Workshop(2011,2012,2014,2017,2019)' and National Student Design Competition on 'Universal Design/Design for All, with the National Institute of Orthropaedically Handicapped, Kolkata, Archaeological Survey of India, Ministry of Social Justice & Empowerment and UNESCO. She is one of the authors of Universal Design India Principles developed at the National Institute of Design, Ahmedabad in 2011. She serves as reviewer in many publications like EDRA, HFES, The Design Journal, and was also a jury member of Berkeley Prize Essay Competition-2013, endorsed by UC Berkeley, USA.

Rachna is well known as an activist and is a founder member of three NGOs called 'Movement for Intervention, Training and Rehabilitation of Children with Autism' (MITRA), Center for Assistive Built Environment (CABE) and Arunoday. She also stayed convener of Kislava Vidya Mandir for several years, a school for underprivileged children supported by 'Asha' Stanford. She currently member secretary of DRONAH Foundation, Development and Research Organization for Nature Arts and Heritage in India. She is also a board member at Arunima; A project for Adults with Autism.

Other than her regular teaching and research at School of Planning and Architecture, Rachna founded and heading a Centre for Human Centric Research (CHCR) that aims to build a body of knowledge that responds to the design needs of diverse human population otherwise marginalized in the past design practices.
